BUFFING PADS... MUST-KNOW INFO!

Not All Buffing Pads Are Created Equal

Let's break it down...

Presta and Malco's high quality buffing pads are designed to provide outstanding results! HOWEVER, just because the part descriptions match between Presta, Malco and a competitor's pad it does not mean they are the same!

What to look for...

The inner disc!

The Presta pad on the right has fibres sewn all the way to the pad edge which is the optimal design. However, the competitor's pad on the left does not require much digging to expose the inner disc... now imagine if it accidentally hit the surface you were buffing! That is some serious damage right there and may require some repainting!

COMPETITOR

PRESTA

Both of these pads are listed as 9" pads, however the competitor pad offers less material and surface area than the Presta pad.

We can see a difference again that the Presta pad on the right is much thicker which is much more effective in distributing pressure on your buffer surface.

What to AVOID!

NEVER overuse a buffing pad, this pad is well past it's prime...
